Thank you for checking in.

And thank whoever or whatever that you're [on the way to being] OK.

Good to have you back with us, one hand or no. :D Here's wishing you a fast and easy recovery (and hoping you're not too bored)!

PS: "cat" ==> Does that make you... what, five different animals now? counts on fingers ^__^

I'm glad you're back and able to speak for yourself.

Try to avoid wallowing in the "I was stupid", because sometimes things that turn out to be Bad were not stupid ideas to begin with. Check all such self-evaluations with a more impartial observer, OK?

Netflix thingy should be in your mailbox--if you're not up to checking the e-mail ask the Artful Rabbit to set it up for you. They seem to have a fairly good selection of concert DVDs in among everything else. I'm hoping you won't have to be stuck with the tube for too long, though.

Maybe AB will let you borrow his kitchen elves until you're back on your feet. fingers crossed Glad you're back and on the road to feeling better! Was getting a bit worried.

 batwranglerJune 5 2008, 12:19:43 UTC COLLAPSE

Feel better soon!

Has anyone in the hospital tried the brilliant trick of evaluating your with-it-ness by asking you what day it is yet? As if anyone in the hospital for more than one day has half a chance of knowing that!

You were missed! It's nice to ~~hear your voice~~ read your words again. A speedy recovery to you!

You can buy me dinner if you want. But I'm still buying you dinner because I'm so relieved your driving didn't catch up to you worse.

Sleep well, sweetie.

Glad to see you post again! Sleep all you need, feel better soon, don't be too hard on yourself, and if there's anything us oddballs out in internet-land can do to help, let us know!

On top of a pile of shoes, legs and shoulders at 180 degrees from each other, and shedding?

I do try not to judge other people's kinks, and if it makes you happy, I can see what can be arranged.

Seriously though, that's an impressive list of injuries. I'm very sorry it happened, but I'm very glad you're still here to be telling us about it. I'm glad you're back. Poor Playtpus. It probably wasn't all that dumb. It was probably just human.

(Next time I make brownies, I'll save some leftovers for you. I suspect they would not be conducive to the rest and relaxation you need right now though.)

Swift healing dear. Peace and comfort as you need them.

ear scratches

Well, I'm not planning on making a batch for a little while yet (the recipe takes a lot of effort and I usually need two days in a row clear). I was planning on making some later this month for a party on the 21st. I always have a few left over because a batch goes a long way.

How about I promise you some as a 'Yay! Better!' present rather than a 'Get better soon' present? They can be a celebration. They tend to keep people awake for a while, and right now I suspect you need rest more than you need chocolate overload.

Do you have a preference between creme de menthe and raspberry? I haven't decided which kind to make for the events, so you can cast a deciding vote.

(and hey, I'd love to see what happens when I send my brownies to you. Most people can't handle more than one a day. You? I'm making no bets.)

i wll still b here. :-P

need a shoggoth? ^_^\n

tamnonlinear

COLLAPSE

A shoggoth sounds adorable, but other than the brownies and the occasional overly complex stew, I'm not much of a cook. More of my food tends to go bad rather than be eaten (I just don't eat at home all that much. I have at least learned to cook things that take well to freezing). I'm afraid I'm not an appropriate home for a shoggoth, though I appreciate the offer. Poor little lurking horror would probably be neglected, and that's not fair to the shoggoth.

(although this does remind me that the rosemary has grown enough that I can make fresh rosemary rolls some time soon...)

A long recuperation, then? Geez, that sucks. We'll call it a progress-not-perfect-present then, okay?

I don't have a preference between the varieties. Both seem to go over well enough. The raspberry is still a little experimental, I'm still trying different things, and the creme de menthe is more established, neither has had any complaints (other than "I was up until 2 am and it's your fault!").

Olive Oil Rosemary Rolls.

Excellent for bread for summer tomato and cheese sandwiches.

Raspberry it is. Cool, this gives me an excuse to experiment some more!
